

The 8th East Asia Workshop for Marine Environment and Energy (EAWOMEN2)

October 12-14, 2017

Seogwipo KAL Hotel, Jeju, Republic of Korea

INVITATION

The 8th East Asia Workshop for Marine Environment and Energy (EAWOMEN2) provides a vital forum for East Asian researchers, engineers and graduate students to share and exchange the latest research and technology in the field of marine environment and energy.

The workshop will promote scientific advancement and technological progress, contribute to the environmentally sound and sustainable development, and enhance international cooperation with experts and participants.

The 8th EAWOMEN2 will be hosted and organized by the Korean Society for Marine Environment and Energy (KOSMEE), which is the 20th anniversary in 2017. Especially, it will be held in same place back to back with 2017 KOSMEE Conference.

It is my pleasure to invite you to join the 8th EAWOMEN2, and all of you will be warmly welcome to Jeju island, a premier tourist attraction in Korea.

Keyyong HONG,
President of KOSMEE

CALL FOR PAPERS

Prospective authors are invited to submit papers on the topics in the area of the marine environmental & energy engineering. Those wishing to present a paper are requested to submit an English abstract of 200-500 words (typed) to the local contact points of the Paper & Executive Committee in an electronic form (e.g., MS-Word).

The abstract must contain the title, the scope and conclusions of the proposed paper, and bearing the names, the complete address of the corresponding author(s) (Postal and E-mail addresses)

WORKSHOP ORGNIZATION

The objective of The 8th East Asia Workshop for Marine Environment and Energy (EAWOMEN2) to be held in Jeju, Republic of Korea (Oct. 12-14, 2017) is to provide a forum for East Asian researchers, engineers, and students to exchange their new ideas and to introduce their latest activities in the field of the marine environmental & energy engineering and management.

The workshop was originally organized by the Korean Society for Marine Environment and Energy (KOSMEE) & the Research Committee on Marine Environment, Society of Naval Architects of Japan (MEC-SNAJ) in 2003. In 2005, Taiwan attended the workshop, which was extended by East Asian Workshop for Marine Environments (EAWOMEN). In 2009, the workshop was extended to four parties because of China's attendance. Name of the network was changed to EAMEN² for including marine energy in 5th EAWOMEN held in Japan, 6th in China, 7th in Taiwan. This workshop has been held every 2 years and the coming 8th EAWOMEN2 will be held in Jeju, Republic of Korea. In between, this workshop has a session in the IEEE/MTS Oceans-Asia Conference like in OCEANS'06 Singapore, OCEANS'08 Kobe, OCEANS'10 Sydney and OCEANS'12 Yeosu. OCEANS'14 Taipei, OCEANS'16 Shanghai.

Organized by

East Asian Network for Marine Environment and Energy (EAMEN²)

The Korean Society for Marine Environment and Energy (KOSMEE)

Japan Society of Naval Architects and Ocean Engineers (JASNAOE)

Ocean Energy Association Japan (OEAJ)

Ocean Renewable Energy Academic Committee of Chinese Renewable Energy Society (OREAC, CRES)

Taiwan Society of Ocean Engineering (TSOE)

Hosted by

The Korean Society for Marine Environment and Energy (KOSMEE)

International Organizing Committee

Prof. Hongda Shi (Ocean University of China, China, EAMEN² Chair)
